

Right Before my Birthday, I found a bike left in front of my house. I took it without thinking and left the house right away.

While I was riding to the town, I turned left, and right, and then left again. That's when I realized that I was right where I had started.

When I saw my mom's car parked in front of the house, I left the bicycle, jumped right off of it. I injured my left leg and bounced to the door after hiding the bike in the bushes.

When my mom saw me, she asked "did you like your new bike?". I ran right through the door to get my bike again, but it wasn't where I left it.

Then I thought to myself "this right here is what I deserve"...

